

Master of Law European law

Criminal Justice

European Law is a one-year Master's specialization at the internationally renowned Leiden Law School at Leiden University. The program distinguishes itself by its multidisciplinary approach, covering substantive and institutional EU law as well as economic law and human rights within a EU perspective. European law is an exciting and rapidly developing discipline. There are few areas of national law and policy within Europe that remain untouched by the influence of European legislation. The scope of EU law, however is even wider, as Europe is becoming an increasingly important actor on the international stage. In this program, you will focus on the various aspects of European Law, as well as the European protection of human rights. You will study topics ranging from EU competition law to EU external relations law, from European social policy to internal market regulations and EU institutional law. You will gain in-depth knowledge about these aspects, while at the same time developing the professional skills needed in a EU-related legal career.

Program

As a student of the European Law Master's, you will benefit from:

- ▶ the attention given to developing practical skills in 'privatissimum' and 'practicum' courses, where you will give presentations in class, exchange ideas and develop your research;
- ▶ the small, seminar-style classes;
- ▶ the annual study trip to Strasbourg, Luxembourg and Brussels, during which you will experience European institutions in practice;
- ▶ the opportunity to participate in moot courts, the most important being the European Law Moot Court Competition. Participation in moot courts is actively supported;
- ▶ the extensive network of our staff, which can facilitate internships (not part of the program), or other contacts;
- ▶ the Law School's excellent library, as well as the library of the nearby Peace Palace (The Hague), which houses one of the world's largest legal collections.

Career

The European Law Master's program offered by Europa Institute at Leiden will provide you with the skills necessary for a successful legal career in the private or public sector. Our alumni have found employment in:

- ▶ European institutions, such as the Council of Europe;
- ▶ international organizations, such as the United Nations, the OECD and the OCSE;
- ▶ national and local government;
- ▶ governmental and non-governmental organizations, such as UNHCR, IOM, Amnesty International and Greenpeace
- ▶ corporate companies;
- ▶ major law firms in Amsterdam, London, Brussels and Luxembourg;
- ▶ academia.
